Solvation describes the interaction of solvent with dissolved molecules. Ionized and uncharged molecules interact strongly with solvent, and the strength and nature of this interaction influence many properties of the solute, including solubility, reactivity, and color, as well as influencing the properties of the solvent such as the viscosity and density.

Although the polymer engineering enabled by reversible reaction is taking shape, showing great potential of development and benefits for next-generation industry, to the best of our knowledge, there has not yet been a review article combining the related topics together from an application perspective, except for quite a few high-level recent reviews on a number of subtopics [ , , , , ].

The Buchwald–Hartwig amination is a chemical reaction used in organic chemistry for the synthesis of carbon–nitrogen bonds via the Palladium-catalyzed coupling reactions of amines with aryl halides. Although Pd-catalyzed C–N couplings were reported as early as 1983, Stephen L. Buchwald and John F. Hartwig have been credited, whose publications between 1994 and the late 2000s established the ...

1. Introduction. Over the last few decades, ubiquitous contamination with various inorganic and organic substances has caused serious problems all over the world , . One reason is the misuse or overuse of antibiotics e.g. for agricultural purposes, which enrich the population of multi-resistant pathogens . In many countries with a low human development index (HDI), particularly in Africa and ...
